ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to determining and establishing at least two node disjoint paths, and, more specifically, to determining and establishing at least two node disjoint paths within a wireless ad-hoc network that includes a source and a target node using on-demand flooding.